Alleged Perjury by Two Union Officials To Be Investigated

House Committee Wants to Know If They Lied About Communism

Washington, March 14 (AP)—The house labor committee today unanimously ordered an investigation to determine whether perjury has been committed at its hearings on labor legislation.

Still before the committee is a specific motion by Rep. Kennedy (D-Mass) to file perjury charges against Harold Christoffel and Robert Buse, leaders of local 248 of the CIO-United Auto Workers Union at Milwaukee. The union is on strike against the Allis-Chalmers Company.

The committee has received testimony that they were communists since they denied that they were.

Asked whether it would be fair to assume that the investigation "is aimed at more than two individuals," Chairman Hartley (R-NJ) replied:

"Yes."

Assigned to make the inquiry.

Asks Divorce and Trust Fund Checkup

Chicago, March 14 (AP)—Mrs. Dorothy Turk, 30, filed a divorce suit in Circuit court late yesterday against her husband, Joseph, 50, and also asked for an accounting of a $250,000 trust fund in the estate of her late mother-in-law, Mrs. Leona Turk.

Mrs. Dorothy Turk claimed a quarter interest in the trust, which her suit alleged, should have been distributed two years ago. Leo J. Bartoline, her attorney, said the trust fund had been built up from the Turk family's furniture factory in Kankakee, Ill.

The plaintiff was granted $250 a month separate maintenance after a legal action five years ago in Kankakee county.

Married in 1935

The suit said Mrs. Turk and her husband were married in 1935 and separated in 1942 when Joseph was committed to the Elgin state hospital. It said he was discharged as cured the following year and that his brother, Frank Turk, of Joliet, was named conservator of his estate and remained in that capacity despite his brother's release.

The suit asked that Frank Turk render an accounting of his conservancy and that he and an uncle, Ezzier Carter, of Manteno, render an accounting of the trust fund.

The suit charges that her husband kicked her in the stomach previous to 1942 so that she fell down stairs and that at a later date he struck her. Both parties to the divorce suit are now believed living in Chicago.

Nazi Fraus Face Series of Trials

Munich, Germany, March 14 (AP)—The society women of the Nazi hierarchy, the widows of Adolf Hitler's top henchmen, today face a series of trials like their husbands before them.

The women who set the fashions of the Nazi regime are now for the most part reduced from riches to rags, from huge mansions to unheated flats and cottages.

Now the Germans who once saw these women living in glittering, new-rich splendor, are preparing to bring them before denazification courts. In at least two cases, their husbands were executed by the allies at Nuernberg.

Most of the Nazi widows live among the hills and farms of the American zone of Bavaria. It was officials of the Bavarian denazification ministry, who yesterday announced the names of the women they plan to bring into court.

Frau Goering Tops List

Heading their list was Frau Hermann Goering who lives with her daughter at Neuhaus. Officials said her indictment as a "Nazi profiteer" will be handed to the former actress next week.

Next is Frau Hans Frank, widow of the former governor of Poland who was hanged at Nuernberg. Officials said she will be tried in Starnberg as soon as her indictment, also as a Nazi profiteer, is completed.

Others to face trial are Frau Wilhelm Frick, widow of Hitler's former minister of the interior, who was executed at Nuernberg; Frau Werner von Blomberg, widow of the late field marshal and Frau Erich von Ludendorff, widow of the famous chief of the German staff in World War I, whom the prosecutor said would be indicted this week as a Nazi propagandist.

Shocking Situation Looms Around Illinois Capitol in Springfield

Springfield, Ill., March 14 (AP)—The thousands of pigeons and starlings that roost under the eaves of the state Capitol are in for a shock.

Secretary of State Edward J. Barrett, who is also Capitol custodian, says he has ordered some electrically wired screening in an experiment aimed at evicting the birds. The screening, carrying only enough juice to give a frightening shock, will be put in strategic places near the pest's haunts.

Barrett said yesterday he is as anxious to drive away the birds as Illinois' four women legislators who have called them a nuisance and asked the secretary in a house resolution to do something about it.

He said stuffed owls and hawks, reported to have banished pigeons and starlings elsewhere, had no effect when they were put in the nesting places of the capitol's fearless specimens. They used them as new perches.

Shotgun blasts also have been tried unsuccessfully. Nearby residents complained of the noise, and anyway the frightened pest came winging back within a few days.

Barrett said several other untried but dubious methods have been suggested. He rejected as impractical a proposal to induce them to leave by sprinkling low-colored grain where the birds congregated.

Advice to poison them was turned down lest they transmit lethal compounds to neighborhood pets. And the idea didn't seem humane.

Barrett said he didn't put much stock in the chloride of lime treatment, either. This substance, spread around the roosting places, was supposed to have about the same effect on the feet as hot coals. Besides, the rain would wash it away.

Installation of spiked rails didn't have any greater appeal to Barrett, who by now knows something about these matters.

The secretary said if the screening doesn't work — well, he's open to suggestions.

Wave of Influenza Forces Closing of Schools in Oregon

All-Scout Program Set for Monday Cancelled as Precaution

(Telegraph Special Service)
Oregon, March 14—All Oregon schools closed for a special three-day holiday yesterday because of the wide-spread wave of influenza which struck here during the past week, and it was announced this morning that the All-Scout program, scheduled for Monday night here, has been postponed indefinitely.

Principal R. L. Kiest of the high school explained that the schools were closed yesterday in the hope

Local Situation

Superintendent A. H. Lancaster said this morning that no influenza epidemic exists in Dixon at the present time, although both teachers and students are suffering from colds. He reported that five teachers are absent from their duties in the school system here, one of whom is suffering from influenza. Less than 10 per cent of the high school students are absent from their classes, and the majority of these have lost but a half day, he said, due to colds. Absence in the grade schools here is running at approximately the same level.

that it would check the spread of influenza. At Oregon high school, which has an enrollment of 285 students, 45 were reported absent. Seventy students were reported absent from their grade school classes which have an approximate enrollment of 425.

School Principal Victim
The same reason was given for the cancellation of the All-Scout program, which was to be given for Boy, Girl and Cub Scouts and Brownies and their families. An attendance of 300 was expected for the program at which awards for Scouting were to be presented. Harold Homan, chief executive for the Blackhawk area council, was to have addressed the gathering.

Kiest said that classes would be resumed in all schools Monday, barring more serious developments.

One of the influenza victims was Miss Gladys Thomas, principal of the grade school, who was reported quite ill earlier in the week, then suffered a recurrence of the sickness yesterday after she attempted to return to her classes.

The wave of influenza was reported general throughout the community.

Marital Relations Given Attention of Judge Geo. C. Dixon

Mrs. Mary Hicks, Harmon, was granted a separate maintenance decree from her husband, Robert F. Harmon farmer, by Judge George C. Dixon, who termed the case a "deplorable situation," and placed a large part of the blame for the couple's trouble on "too much interference by outside parties."

His decision came after several attempts at reconciliation failed, the latest coming last Friday. Reconciliation depended on an ecclesiastical marriage, which Mrs. Hicks sought. Judge Dixon set appeal bond at $1,000.

By terms of the decree handed down this morning, Mrs. Hicks was granted custody of their child, and Hicks was ordered to pay $20 weekly for support of Mrs. Hicks and the boy. The judge also ordered an inventory and division of furniture, owned jointly by the couple.

Hicks was also ordered to pay court costs and attorneys fees. Gerald Jones represented the plaintiff, while George Nichols represented Hicks.

Other Court Action
In other court action this morning, Judge Dixon granted divorces to Mrs. Myrtle Austin and Mrs. Lucille E. Newcomer, both of Dixon and both on charges of cruelty.

Mrs. Austin, represented by William R. Gunner, charged that her husband, Dowton, whom she married Oct. 18, 1941, had struck her on several occasions specifically enumerating instances on Dec. 27, 1946, and Feb. 1 and 10 this year. Austin was granted custody of their only child. He was represented by L. L. Winn, Sterling.

Mrs. Newcomer was granted $40 monthly and custody of a son, David, 13, from Glenn C. Newcomer. She also received their household goods. They were married Nov. 25, 1932, at Joliet, and separated Jan. 1, 1947.

Vichy Commissioner is Given 10 Year Sentence

Versailles, March 14 (AP)—A French high court today sentenced Vice-Admiral Georges Robert, 72, Vichy's high-commissioner to the French West Indies, to 10 years hard labor and national degradation on charges of committing acts prejudicial to France's best interests.

Robert was accused by the court of establishing a dictatorship in Martinique after the fall of France, and of preventing Frenchmen there from joining Gen. Charles De Gaulle's Free French movement.

Seek Teleprinters in Case of Phone Strike

New York, March 14 (AP)—A union representative said last night that unions representing 96,000 telephone workers in the New York-New Jersey area have asked for installation of teleprinter service between their offices and Washington to use in the event of a nationwide telephone strike April 7.

The National Federation of Telephone Workers, which has threatened the walkout, has its offices in Washington.

Dixonite, Sister Sued for Damages

George E. Helfrich and a sister, Ethel Zentz, Dixon, have been named defendants in a $30,950 damage suit filed in Ogle county Circuit court at Oregon yesterday by Arthur G. Burke, Robert Wilde and the latter's wife, Muriel, all of Mt. Morris.

The suit is the outgrowth of an automobile accident in Mt. Morris Nov. 14, 1936, when cars driven by Helfrich and Burke collided at an intersection there. The complaint says that Helfrich was driving a car owned by his sister.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilde, both of whom allege injuries as a result of the collision, were passengers in Burke's car at the time of the crash.

License Suspended
Mrs. Wilde is seeking $25,000 damages for injuries she says she suffered in the accident and $500 for time lost from her job with the Kable News company, Mt. Morris. Wilde is asking $5,000 for injuries and lost time at his job with the E. D. Elyne company, Oregon. Burke seeks $150 damages to his car.

Mrs. Wilde charges in the complaint that she suffered a multiple pelvic fracture and was hospitalized in Rockford for 36 days after the crash.

Helfrich's driver's license, the complaint alleges, had been suspended in Lee County court prior to the accident. It charges that his sister was aware of that suspension when she permitted Helfrich to drive her car.

Senate Committee Wants Draft Files Retained by Boards

Tense International Situation Reflected in Its Recommendation

Washington, March 14 (AP)—President Truman overruled his top military manpower experts in advising congress to let the wartime draft act expire at the end of this month.

This became known today after Chairman Gurney (R-SD) made available to a reporter the transcript of a closed door session of the senate armed service committee.

Gurney previously reported a committee decision to urge a delay of at least three months in the transfer of draft records from local boards to state capitals because of the troubled world situation.

The recorded testimony of Tuesday's committee meeting disclosed that both Maj. Gen. W. S. Paul, Army chief of personnel, and Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, Selective Service director, concurred under questioning that they had recommended continuance of the draft even though there have been no induction calls since October.

Senator Saltonstall (R-Mass) asked Paul whether it would not have been better to have extended Selective Service itself, rather than set up an Office of Selective Service Records proposed by the president to keep draft files intact.

"As for me, I think personally it would be far simpler to have retained the skeleton organization, but the commander in chief did not see fit to do it, so I am in no position to say otherwise," Paul replied.

Differences Revealed
Senator Byrd (D-VA) developed that Hershey and the president also differed about extension of the

Expect to Rescue Threatened Seamen

Honolulu, March 14 (AP)—The freighter Telfair Stockton reported to the Hawaiian sea frontier today that weather was moderating and it expected the rescue of 22 men from the stern section and eight from the bow section of the broken tanker Fort Dearborn shortly after dawn.

Four navy patrol bombers were due to leave Midway this morning to search for 12 men of the tanker's crew missing in a lifeboat since the ship split in a storm Wednesday, 1,100 north northwest of Honolulu.

Meanwhile, the freighter Robert S. Broussard, which had reported itself in distress, radioed today that sea and winds were subsiding and that "perhaps we can continue to Yokohama." The 7,000 ton vessel is loaded with locomotives from the United States.

The Telfair Stockton radioed that "all is in order," adding that Dearborn crewmen had managed to get the stern section of the ship underway.

The transpacific liner Gen. W. H. Gordon and the St. Johns Victory stood by the bow of the Dearborn. Seven of the Gordon's crewmen were injured and fished from the sea when a lifeboat was launched Thursday and splintered against the ship's side in a swell.

The 10,445-ton Fort Dearborn had sailed from San Francisco for Shanghai with cargo of diesel oil.

Wisconsin Representative Learns His Lesson in House the Hard Way

Washington, March 14 (AP)—Rep. Frank Keefe (R-Wis.) has learned in congress what most men already know from private life: You can't argue with a woman.

His teacher: Rep. Helen Gahagan Douglas (D-Calif.).

Mrs. Douglas fetched $15 worth of groceries right into the house to assist her in a talk on prices. She started off by saying she could have bought the same groceries for $10 last June, before price controls went off. The one-time actress scattered her property over a table near the rostrum and cried:

"Those members of the Republican party who in good faith promised lower prices are now left holding the bag. I say to them, don't look now, but a very lively ghost is at your shoulder. He is the high cost of living."

It was about this time that Keefe decided he would like to ask a question. Mrs. Douglas never slowed down. She said that Wednesday, at a chain store, she paid 69 cents for a dozen eggs. In June, she said, they cost only 53 cents. Three pounds of ground steak, she said, had increased from $1.35 to $2.07, and two home with her.

And look at margarine," she said, picking up a pound of same and wagging it at Keefe. "This is the poor man's butter. And it has gone up from 18 cents to 43 cents."

When Mrs. Douglas finished, Keefe got to ask his question. He said he wanted to know exactly what Mrs. Douglas was driving at.

"You see how food prices have skyrocketed now that price controls have ended," she said. "I want to see that the same thing doesn't happen to rent control."

From here on Keefe's role in the debate dwindled steadily. It consisted mostly of "yes, but—" "If I may—" "I would like to ask—"

Finally he got a whole sentence out. It was: "I see the impossibility of getting a word in edgewise."

A moment later he said: "Again I struggle to get a word in."

He struggled in vain. At one point Mrs. Douglas said: "I place this food basket where it belongs — squarely in the lap of the Republican party."

She didn't though. She collected the groceries and took them home with her.

FBI, State Police Seek McNear Clues

Peoria, Ill., March 14 (AP)—Both the federal and state governments took a hand today in investigating the shotgun assassination last Monday night of Railroad President George P. McNear as city police said they still lacked any substantial clues in the case.

The only person questioned by detectives thus far was released yesterday after Police Chief Victor Klarich said a lie detector test indicated he could give no information about the slaying. He was Roy Daily 36, former chief of guards on a railroad armored car, whom McNear discharged about a year ago.

With only a pair of men's brown gloves and casts of footprints found near the scene of the ambush as their strongest clues, detectives said their investigation had settled down to "routine plugging."

Test McNear's Clothing

The department of Justice announced in Washington last night that it was entering the case because the 55-year-old Toledo, Peoria & Western railroad president had appeared as a witness before a house committee and thus was entitled to federal protection.

Meanwhile, T. P. Sullivan, state director of public safety, said at Springfield that all the state's investigating facilities had been thrown into the case.

The state officials said they had completed their tests of the clothing McNear wore when he was shot down while taking a customary night stroll near his home in the fashionable West Bluff residential area.

The clothing and the gloves have been turned over to the FBI for further analysis, state police said. They indicated their tests had produced nothing conclusive.

Funeral services for McNear were held yesterday in the First Federated church.

Storm Kills Two, Hurts Louisiana Farm Crops

New Orleans, March 14 (AP)—The United States weather bureau promised a spell of clear weather for Louisiana today, after a storm which left at least two dead, flooded a number of communities in the southern part of the state, and caused many thousands of dollars of damage to crops.

Two-year-old Zulme Leblanc and Susie Yates, 78, were killed at Abbeville, in the heart of the Louisiana French country, when their homes were blown across the street by a tornado wind that accompanied a rainstorm.

Rainfall amounted to nearly seven inches in some towns. In the strawberry belt, about 50 miles north of New Orleans, fields were under water and considerable loss was feared.

Wallace Slaps Truman For Communist Speech

New York, March 14 (AP)—Henry Wallace, former cabinet member, predicts that the policy advocated by President Truman in his speech to congress Wednesday "will spread Communism in Europe and Asia."

"When President Truman proclaims the worldwide conflict between east and west, he is telling the Soviet leaders that we are preparing for eventual war," the editor of New Republic magazine said in a radio broadcast (NBC) last night.

"Russia may be poor and unprepared for war but she knows very well how to reply to Truman's declaration of economic and financial pressure," Wallace said.

Congress Will Seek Complete Details of Truman's Proposals

Legislators Want to Learn Where Course Will Lead Nation

Washington, March 14 (AP)—Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) compiled at a Republican conference today a list of questions he said top ranking government officials will be asked to answer fully before congress passes on American aid to Greece and Turkey.

Vandenberg, chairman of the foreign relations committee, reported on international developments at a closed meeting of senate Republicans.

He was said to have faced a barrage of queries about the foreign and domestic effect of President Truman's proposal to extend financial and indirect military help to the two countries.

Senator Wherry (Neb) told a reporter the questions ranged from future status of the United Nations to demands to know whether American troops are to be used in the Mediterranean area.

"Senator Vandenberg is compiling these into a questionnaire which he said he will insist upon competent government officials answering fully in public hearings before the foreign relations committee acts on the proposal," Wherry said.

"The questions have covered every conceivable phase of the effect of this move on American and international affairs."

Wants "Top Rank Candor"

Later Vandenberg, who has called for "top rank candor" on the international situation, told reporters that "if anybody has any questions to ask about this proposal, I want them answered."

His demand for "top rank candor" was being interpreted as a suggestion that Secretary of State Marshall discuss the crisis with Premier Stalin at the Moscow foreign ministers meeting.

Conference, Chairman Vandenberg told reporters that he "demanded" the opinion that there was "less risk involved in following the president's suggestion (for aid to the two countries) than in rejecting it."

A move developed today to combine senate and house committee hearings and thus speed action on Truman's program for American aid to Greece and Turkey.

It was suggested by Rep. Lodge (R-Conn.) as the house foreign affairs committee met to hear a discussion of the program by Undersecretary of State Acheson, Secretary of War Patterson and Secretary of the Navy Forrestal.

Terms May Be Narrowed
These same officials went over the president's proposal yesterday in a session with the senate foreign relations committee.

Capitol Hill comment indicated congressional opposition would be confined to narrowing the terms under which $400,000,000 of aid

Hint France Has Atomic 'Know-How'

Lake Success, N. Y., March 14 (AP)—Frederic Joliot-Curie, ranking French expert on atomic energy, implied today that France, too, knows how to manufacture atomic bombs.

In a highly technical article written for the magazine United Nations World, the French scientist, one-time assistant to Mme. Marie Curie, declared that the principle of the atomic bomb is "simple."

Without specifically saying in cold, black type that France has the "know-how" to build atomic bombs, Joliot-Curie, nevertheless, gave the impression that France can turn out atomic bombs too. And he added:

"We are thus approaching the third stage: That of practical application of atomic energy to improve the living standards of mankind."

Believe Only U. S. Knows
American and British scientists who are expert in atomic energy development are of the opinion that only the United States has the real "know-how" to build atomic bombs and that other countries are still in the experimental stage of atomic research.

Yet, American scientists have warned for months that the United States can not hope to hold forever the secret of the atomic bomb. There have been recent indications that German scientists have been employed by the Russians to solve the secret. How far they have proceeded is another secret. But it is a fact that German scientists were experimenting with methods of splitting the atom long before U. S. scientists went to work on the project.

Bahamas May Get Fourth Floodtide of Prosperity in Boom

Recent War Provided Its Biggest Boom, Upped Native Wage Scale

Nassau, Bahamas — (AP)— A flight of wealth from more distant lands may bring this colorful sea-grit, British archipelago — long a playground of the rich — its fourth flood tide of prosperity since Christopher Columbus landed in 1492.

Columbus, the first disappointed to come seeking gold. In the centuries since then the leisu- rous man has convinced later voyagers they should bring their own gold if they wanted any fun.

First privileged class to enjoy this blue and coral paradise were the pirates, including the notorious Blackbeard. He impressed the happy natives less with his blood-thirsty executions than by his general habit of tying sulphur matches into his tremendous beard and setting them afire.

Civil War Profitable Prosperity came again during the blockade running days of the American Civil war, when the desperate south sent over its cotton and household treasures in exchange for guns and ammunition. This trade enabled British colonial officers to build most of the government buildings still standing in Nassau.

Profits garnered during the pro- tection era, when state-wide rum runners found here ample supplies of scotch and rum, supplied the funds for the island's fine roads.

Need Foreign Capital The biggest boom came during the war, when Nassau was a great airbase, and local employers still complained of the effect of high wages had on the native population. "It ruined their character," one said. "They don't want to go back to the old standards — that that's all the island will support."

Native women are less choosy than the men. Winter residents can hire a maid for $4 a week — "with basket." The "with basket" clause means she has the right to tote food leftovers home to her own family.

Businessmen now see as their only hope to avoid a slow decline the influx of foreign capital by investors attracted by the climate and the colony's freedom from income tax.

So the Bahamas are back in business as a high-priced tourist farm selling sand and sea, sun and scenery — the enduring gold that Columbus missed.

Handless Veteran Gets Two Oscars; Olivia, March Win

Hollywood, March 14 — (AP)— Frederic March was chosen as the best actor of the year, Olivia De Havilland was named the best actress — but handless Harold Russell stole the show at last night's 19th annual presentation of awards by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences.

Russell, the veteran with the hooks in the "The Best Years of Our Lives," which won the "Best Picture" award, went home with two Oscars tucked under his arm.

His "Best Years" role, his first in motion pictures, brought him Academy acclaim as the best supporting actor, and a special award by the Academy's board of directors. The board did not know he would win the supporting award, because results were kept in a sealed envelope until announcements were made from the stage.

March was not present to receive his Oscar. He is in a New York stage production and his statuette was accepted by Cathy O'Donnell, Russell's sweetheart in "Best Years".

Miss De Havilland, gowned in a strapless light blue tulle, said she intended to place her Oscar on a table in her bedroom.

Other major awards went to Anne Baxter, for her supporting role in "The Razor's Edge," and to the director of "Best Years," William Wyler.

Miss De Havilland's sister, Joan Fontaine, former award winner, presented March's Oscar, Ray Milland, who won an Oscar last year for "The Lost Weekend," presented Olivia's award.

Master of Ceremonies Jack Benny, introducing Milland to the ca-

pacily crowd of 6,700 in the Shrine auditorium, said "Phil Harris could have played the 'Lost Weekend' better than Milland — and he'd have found the bottle in the chandelier sooner".

His First And Last Film Applause and cheers rent the air both times Russell accepted an award. Russell's few, embarrassed words were doubly poignant to the few who knew that "Best Years" was not only the ex-paratrooper's first movie — but his last.

He is on leave of absence from Boston university, where he is studying advertising, until June, and is making a "pep talk" tour of amputee wards in army hospitals. After graduation from college next year, Russell will enter advertising in Samuel Goldwyn's New York office.

Russell, manager of a chain grocery in Cambridge, Mass., before the war lost his hands when a half-pound TNT he was carrying exploded at a paratroop training camp June 6, 1944 — the day Allied troops invaded France.

"I won't continue in pictures as

as actor", Russell said last night. "After tonight, any movie I could make would be anticlimatic".

"Famous First" Leader Dies of Heart Ailment

Chicago, March 14 — (AP)— Major General Frank Parker, retired, 74, whose army career covered 46 years, died last night after an attack of heart disease as he was being taken to a hospital. He commanded the famous First division in the last weeks of the first world war and served as head of the former Sixth Corps Area, with headquarters in Chicago, from 1929 to 1933.

After retirement in 1936, he served for one year as an executive of Goldblatt Bros., Inc., in Chicago, before retiring from public life in 1937. He served after that as consultant on national defense for the American Legion and during the last war was executive director of the Illinois Council of Defense.

A native of Georgetown, S. C.

Parker graduated from West Point 1894. He spent more than 23 years of his army service in foreign lands. He is survived by his wife, Katherine, two daughters and a brother.

Long-Lost Classic is Back in Bradley File

Peoria, Ill., March 14 — (AP)— Without changing a word of the text, poet Milton's "Paradise Lost" has become Bradley university's library's paradise regained.

A copy of the English classic, drawn from the school library over 40 years ago was returned yesterday by William Olsen. He said he found it among old school books belonging to a friend or his father.

Forgiven fines, a librarian estimated, would have totaled about $280.

There are approximately 175,000 local taxing jurisdictions in the United States.

—W. E. Henley.Big Step Forward
It is too early yet for over-optimism. There still is a chance for hobbies to be slipped onto a promising horse. But it is distinctly encouraging that the United Nations Economic and Social Council
has set up a special commission
to handle European reconstruction
on a unified, continent-wide
basis.There are at least three very
pleasing things about this action,
taken only nine months after the
proposal first was made in London.First, because unified, continent-wide planning and execution
are the only ways that the highly integrated continent can be put
back on its feet and helped to repair the war's devastation.Second, because this is really
the first time that the vicious and ever-widening chasm between Soviet eastern Europe and the non-Soviet western nations has appeared likely to be bridged by any specific co-operative activity.Third, because Russia, after opposing the plan in its original form, has accepted a version that was merely weakened and not completely perverted.From the viewpoint of cold logic, undoubtedly it would be more efficient if the power systems of the continent could be unified, if restrictive economic barriers could
be removed, if labor surpluses
from one section — or even from
one country — could be moved
wherever labor shortages existed.But on second thought there are practical objections, human nature being what it is.There almost certainly would be outraged objections if a United Nations Commission were to attempt, willy-nilly, to unify our power system and tie it up with
those of Canada and Mexico and the rest of this hemisphere.And the heavens would be blasted by our revolt if a British-Russian-Chinese — Czech — Dutch — Chilean commission were to start
ordering New York's unemployed
clothing workers to South Carolina cotton mills.Over here on our side of the Big Pond we sometimes forget the centuries of bitter wars that have devastated almost every important
country in Europe. We have sel-
don had other nations try to boss
us around, so we have little conception of the intense nationalism
that such conflict breeds.Maybe it is not enough, but surely it is something that the often disagreeing Soviet Union, and
the Anglo-American "bloc" haveNews Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

(Copyright, 1947, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)Washington—Why some Republican leaders are reaching for the whip is not difficult to ascertain.
You can guess this one accurately
from the scoreboard, which to date
shows no runs, no hits and innumerable errors.Their congressional leadership is in danger of nullification, and this
of course means nullification of Democracy. The matter is no less important than that. The Tru-manites (unions?) who look at
the situation gleefully as a chance to ruin the election prestige of
their adversaries need new glasses.
The Republicans who think they can gain political prestige by appealing to class groups are no less blind.The only development which could save this democracy is for
the Republicans to get the chance
for leadership which the people
gave them in the last election.
Otherwise there will be no leadership, only nullifying conflict at the helm.Mr. Truman did not have to call off his vacation for a crisis in Greece. He has one here at home which would warrant attention.If you do not believe me, look at the scoreboard on the gross Washington leadership to date:The closing of the senate hearings normally would bring a report and bill on union reform within a week or ten days. Then will come long senate debate which reporters suspect cannot be concluded for three or more weeks.The house committee was late getting started for some reason,
but has a plan to get its bill out
there ahead of the senate. Also the debate there will be shortened.
But after action is taken by the house, the two bills will go to conference (because both bills will not be exactly alike) and the final form will be wrangled out. Ultimately dispatched to the White House thereafter, the legislation
faces prospect of veto and it may
then return to both houses to pass
over a veto.Anyone who figures all this can be done within two months normally is taking liberty with reasonableness. It is more likely to require three or more.The final form, as nearly everyone has guessed by now (although
you read it first here last December and repeatedly since then), is likely to follow the Case bill with some modifications, or what will be called the Ball-Taft-Smith bill
this time. It will be practically the same as Mr. Truman vetoed last year before election, establishing government arbitration boards.

Those in charge of congressional

agreed to get together even on a limited plane in this job of reconstruction. Maybe an entering wedge has been forged, which, if
it works; could open the door to further co-operation.The birth struggles of United Nations co-operation have sometimes been torturing to watch.
But here, in many ways, is the
most promising thing that has yet
come out of that fledgling and often cantankerous body.affairs judge much of the debate
will center around the proposals to abolish the closed shop and the restrictions upon industry-wide
bargaining—both amendments of Minnesota's Senator Ball. One or both might be passed by one house,
but the chances of either passing
both houses is slim.So while some Republican leaders are claiming the job they are doing in congress is unprecedentedly tremendous, they can hardly escape the conclusion that:After all the current trouble and more coming, the result is apt to be just what was passed last session in a Democratic congress and failed then by veto.Look at the scoreboard again.
They have pushed up near to final
enactment and then stopped the bill limiting the presidency to two terms (a matter which could wait
until 1950 at least before it could have any practical effect); also they have pushed abolition of the portal-to-portal backpay increases (incidentally labor did not object strenuously), and the proposed cuts in the budget. On the budget
they have spent considerable time
and patience on the theory that they should spare expenses before
adopting a tax reduction.This latter step naturally has had the effect of postponing tax
reduction which many Republicans
consider to be the swiftly needed
key to economic advancement of the country, equal in importance
almost to labor legislation. This proposed tax stimulation to economic activity has now run into the Truman promotion of more loans and relief to Europe. The question of loans has weakened
some Republican backing of a 20
per cent cut and caused some congressmen privately to talk about 15 or 10 per cent or maybe even less.Now I am informed with the utmost reliability, the Truman administration has not contemplated
getting anything from abroad in return for the loans. Indeed his Democrats tell me they cannot get anything in return for the money
—for instance any guarantees
from Greece or Italy or the other nations which would promote our struggle to maintain our ideals in those nations against the growth
of communist and Russian interests, or any commitments. Apparently the administration policy
has the preliminary effect of blocking the planned Republican
tax reduction without getting anything in return from abroad. I know of, in the way of secret or public promises. This would seem to make American taxpayers
suffer not only a loss in proposed
tax reductions, but apparently continued loss of their interests
abroad in the nations where communism has been active politically
in the minority.Otherwise, as senate Republican floor leader White said in a speech
inserted in the record not long ago,
the Republicans have been snowed
in heavily with routine work. The trouble is you cannot put snow on the scoreboard.NEED

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

(Copyright, 1947, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)The Catholic Youth Organization of Brooklyn has withdrawn
from the Dodger-Knot-Hole Club,
an organization of boys between 13 and 15 with about 120,000
members, who attend some of the games at the Brooklyn ball-yard
free. This action is by way of rebuke to Leo Durocher, the manager of the team, for his implication in "a long series of events
both on and off the baseball diamond." The events are not specified but reference may be suspected to Durocher's association with George Raft and other personalities of the underworld of the
movies, the radio and the night
clubs, his muckraking on the field
and his marriage.Directly this can not have the effect of a boycott of the baseball firm, although it might deter
some adult cash customers who
are Catholics, and some others.
The fact that some of the persons who own a financial interest
in the first are Catholics is a complication because the letter of withdrawal says Durocher's
example would be deleterious to
the moral and spiritual welfare of young boys. These owners
will be unlikely to plead guilty
of maintaining a moral nuisance,
as a member of their own clergy
implies.I am opposed to boycotts in general but not in principle, believing that they are justified in some circumstances and that the individual has a right to decide for himself what reasons are sufficient. In this case, I prefer the counsel of Patrick F. Scanlan, the managing editor of The Tablet,
a vigorous weekly "maintained
by and in the interest of the Roman Catholic diocese of Brooklyn,"
which is regarded as the official publication of the diocese.In personal comment on Du-rocher's conduct, Mr. Scanlan
wrote that he had "sold out his reputation among the Knot-Hole
kids and other youths who had looked up to him—emphasis on up
—as a hero, a smart fellow, a good strategist, a leader worthy of admiration and imitation," but offered him encouragement and another chance."Leo," Mr. Scanlan said, "here is a chance to show you are a real
guy, not a cheap or disloyal fellow. Redeem yourself before the season starts, not only for your own eternal welfare but for the pleasure all of us might get by seeing the Dodgers play this year."This is consistent with the position taken by Branch Rickey, the business executive of the firm, who recently described himself as amoral and spiritual receiver for Durocher. Mr. Rickey is a conspicuously religious Protestant. He said he had prayed over Durocher,
still had faith in him and had
hope, at least, that he would
shun some of his old companions
this year and henceforth, and otherwise reform.Dispatches from Havana, where
the Brooklyn team is training, report that Durocher has quit gambling on cards and forbidden the team to play cards for keeps, has withdrawn from the society of
bookmakers and other vobeton
types and is making a stab, at least, at vindicating Rickey's confidence. The very moment when
this man is showing symptoms of fright and correction would be
no time to review all the reasons
why he suddenly found himself in a fix. It is not rubbing it in, however, to say that change had become imperative.It is too bad that Brooklyn
chose Havana for this year's training rites because Havana is a Latin-American capital with the traditional vices and, by coincidence, was selected this year as a special outpost by the criminal scum of New York, Chicago and the Midwest. Fortunately, Lucky Luciano, an extraordinarily loathe-
some rogue, bobbed up there, having broken his exile in Sicily, to which he was deported on his untimely release from prison in New York. Prostitution and narcotics
are among his business interests,
and naturally in Havana he met
old friends down from the states.Although several American journalists who might qualify as experts on the roster and the relationships of American gangsters
have sojourned in Havana, the reporting of this unique coterie, as usual, has been tantalizingly retic-
ent. They suggest much but reveal nothing. They advertise
themselves and their own munifi-
cent charities and invaluable services to the nation, the sick and
poor and their incorruptible devotion to tolerance, but they also publicize individuals in the manner known as "glamorous" who
in the hands of honest and more
courageous journalists, would be deglamorized as public enemies.The only exception to this propaganda that I have read was written by Robert Ruark, of the World-Telegram, who is one of the cosmic rather than the gent's-
room school, however, and apparently just happened by. Even Mr.
Ruark, though, is sketchy. He says a campaign is going on to sweeten Luciano's character with barber water, but lets it go at
that. He tells us that a pushful
sprout of the new deal-night club-Hollywood axis, of late presented in the role of friend and leader of
our youth, has been socializing
with "the mob" in Havana and is"IVES" Quality

Take the Laughter

Copyright by Karen DeWolf
by Karen DeWolf Distributed by NEA SERVICE, INC.THE STORY: Sherry and Wanda
had rented a cottage together in one of Hollywood's beautiful countrysides. Then Wanda went off with a married man and Sherry was left alone. Her three best friends are the boys in the cottage at the countryside. Sherry is a girl who wants to act in the movies. Andrew, Tony who wants to direct and Danish Kide who hopes to be a producer. Sherry's allowance from home isn't enough to keep the cottage by herself and
she tells the boys she'll have to find a job. Sandro thinks he can arrange a meeting with the story
editor of his studio.BY noon the next day Sherry
was waiting for Sandro to call.
She knew that his company had probably not even broken for lunch yet, but she waited.It wasn't until ten past two that
the telephone rang.
He said, "But I have seen you."
She can be here by three. Can you not?Sherry got him straightened out.
It was Mrs. Drood he had seen and the appointment was for three.Sherry said, "Oh, Sandro, you're a darling!" and banged up the receiver.By ten minutes to three Sherry
was at the studio desk telling the man she had an appointment with
Mrs. Drood at 3 o'clock.The man said, "It isn't three yet.
Sit down, won't you?"At one minute to three she went back to the desk. The man acted
as if he had not seen her before,
and asked her who she wanted to see all over again. Then he called a number and said, "Miss Lynne
to see Mrs. Drood," and hung up and gave her a pass.In a minute Sherry was on the
lot. She had never seen a studio
lot before. The big lawns were neat and green, and the red-roofed buildings were white in the sun.Sherry looked carefully at the people she passed. You never could tell whom you might see.Finally she found the building to which she had been directed.A pleasant, gray-haired woman
at a desk looked at her pass and spoke into a telephone. Then she clicked a gate and told Sherry to go upstairs. Sherry found the door
and knocked.A SURPRISED voice said, "For heaven's sake, come in."
Sherry came in.
She said, "Mrs. Drood?"
The woman behind the desk
said, "No, Mrs. Drood's busy. I'm her secretary. Can I do anything
for you?"Sherry's heart sank.
She said, "I had an appointment
with Mrs. Drood at 3 o'clock."
The woman said, "What about?"
Sherry was embarrassed.
"About—about a job," she told
her."Reading?"
Sherry said yes, and the woman
took a book out of a drawer and
said, "Give me your name and
telephone number."
Sherry did and the secretary
wrote it down at the end of a long list of names and telephone numbers headed "Readers."After a while a door clicked
somewhere and a buzzer buzzed
at the secretary's desk.She said, "You can go in now."
Sherry went in. She meant to say good afternoon very crisply,
but it did not come out that way.The office was large and sunny
with chintz curtains. Mrs. Drood
sat with her back to the window.
She looked important but frumpy.
She had dark skin and greasy hair
and her eyes were a little oriental.She looked at Sherry as though
she did not like her and said, "Sit down. My, you're pretty!"Sherry was surprised. She sat down.Mrs. Drood said, "Sandro's been telling me how very clever you

Plan Convention at Woman's Club District Meeting

Plans for the annual convention of the Thirteenth District of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs were discussed at the meeting of district board members yesterday in Lena. Members of the Polo Woman's club and the Polo Junior Woman's club will be hostesses for the convention to be held April 18 with registration starting at 9:00 o'clock.

Reports by the presidents of the 51 member clubs in the district were given. The size of the clubs varied from the small groups of 25 members in rural and small communities to the large Freeport group of over 500 members.

According to the reports, nearly all the clubs have participated in the state projects which include: cancer control, occupational therapy scholarships, music camp scholarships, aid to veterans especially at Christmas time, sending school supplies to the children of foreign countries, planting trees in certain state parks and the special state project for the past two years which was collecting $15,000 for a cottage to be built at the Trail Rangers of American boys home at Michael.

Some of the unusual projects carried on in various communities were: full responsibility for the public library, maintaining the school kindergarten and religious education teachers and equipment in schools, taking over drives such as the Red Cross, feeding the birds by hanging bags of seeds dropped into thickets from low flying airplanes, securing progress and exhibits for the benefit of the community, maintaining summer playgrounds, keeping a scholarship fund and helping with underprivileged and shut-in people.

A group of grade school children from Lena sang several numbers in the afternoon.

Mrs. Frank Keck of Freeport, district president, told of the recent state board meeting and of the progress of the state projects. She stated that $2,000 still needs to be collected before the state organization can give their pledged $15,000 to the Trail Ranger Home. She also mentioned the state convention, which will be held in Chicago May 19, 20 and 21.

New York, March 14—(AP)—So far this month President Truman has made three all-network broadcasts on national questions, two in the afternoon and one at night. For them, his listener ratings, as based on special Hooper polls, have followed a rather steady pattern.

Both of his daytime talks, that of March 6 on foreign trade from Baylor University, Waco, Tex., and his Wednesday address to congress on a loan to Greece and Turkey, were rated at 19.9 per cent. This, it is figured, gave him a potential adult audience of nearly 10,000,000.

The night broadcast, that on March 3 from Mexico City, in view of the time of day, had the much higher percentage of 34, estimated to represent around 25,000,000 adult listeners.

Hollywood, March 13—(AP)—This town is on the brink of a revolution which may be the most important since motion pictures learned to talk. You get the feeling all over film capital that big changes are in the making. The latest symptom of unrest is the tightening up of purse strings by the banks, which heretofore have been fairly liberal in advancing money to film companies.

This trend may put many new independent producers out of business, since most of them depend on outside backing. The big studios are worried, too, and many new changes will come to light in future weeks.

Yep, spring is just around anybody's corner, and Gene Kelly says you'd better get in shape for it. Get rid of that paunch, admonishes the dancing master, and he's got just the formula for it.

Instead of the usual pre-breakfast push-ups and knee-bends, Gene advises us to pirouette before prunes, tap before toast. He says a fast 10-minute dance routine, including some hip kicks and a few twirls, will do wonders toward flattening your stomach. "And think of the fun you'd have," Sounds like a good idea; I'm starting next month.

Movie Starlett, 20, Linked With Hughes

Los Angeles, March 14.—(AP)—Film starlet Jean Peters, 20, was wearing a striking ring of diamonds and sapphires on her engagement finger when she appeared in court for approval of a movie contract and it provoked the question of whether she and Howard Hughes are "serious" about each other.

"I guess so—oh yes, it's serious—it's serious with both of us," Miss Peters told reporters after the $300-a-week contract was approved yesterday.

Asked if she and the millionaire maker of planes, oil tools and movies plan marriage, she replied: "It hasn't been discussed and, after all, I'm still a little young, don't you think?"

Besides, said the former Ohio State university coed and beauty contest winner, the ring was only a birthday present and won't fit any other finger.

Hughes could not be reached for comment.

George Beier Seeks To Have Option on Bakery Here Voided

Arguments Presented in Circuit Court Here This Afternoon

Hearings on a motion of an undisclosed nature were scheduled for this afternoon before Judge George C. Dixon in Lee county circuit court in the case by which George H. Beier, owner of Beier's bakery, 69 Ottawa avenue, seeks to have provisions of an option held by Arthur Beier, former partner in the business, voided to allow the incorporation of the business.

The agreement, entered into by the two men in 1945 when George purchased the defendant's interests in the business, provided that Geo. Beier could not sell or offer the business for sale for five years after the agreement without giving Arthur an option to purchase it. It further provided that the option must be acted upon within 10 days.

Other Specifications

The agreement specified that if the option was not taken and the business was sold within five years after the date of the pact for more than $220,000, plus improvements and less depreciation then Arthur should receive 50 per cent of the excess profits if the sale was consummated within a year after the date of agreement; 45 per cent of the excess profits if sold within the second year, and 40 per cent of excess profits if sold within the third, fourth or fifth years.

George Beier, in his complaint, has stated that he proposes to incorporate the business in order to more efficiently and practically conduct the business. He claims he notified the defendant of his intentions to incorporate, with the resultant transfer of assets to the corporation which he says is necessary in exchange for stock in the corporation.

He claims he asked for the defendant's agreement without first offering the property to him, claiming it was not a transference of the character contemplated as constituting a breach of the provisions of the option. To this, he says, Arthur has shown opposition.

Claims Deal Not a Sale

He further asks that the court decide that the proposed incorporation is not a sale or an offer for sale as contemplated in the option, and that he need not submit an offer to sell.

The plaintiff also has filed a motion to dismiss a counterclaim and answer filed by the defendant on the grounds that allegations contained in it are vague and indefinite for reforming the option.

In his counterclaim, Arthur contends that one of the provisions in contention was erroneously entered by clerical error and should be corrected.

He also charges that the proposed incorporation will cause him great loss, injury and irreparable damage, adding that the plaintiff is trying to liquidate the business and transferred to George Breeding and James C. Gipson three vehicles and the good will and right to do business in an area where approximately 14 per cent of the firm's gross business is transacted. He asks an injunction restraining George Beier from transferring or encumbering any of the property.

Russ Term Truman Danger to Peace of World in Red Press

New Interference in the Business of Others, Soviets Told

London, March 14.—(AP)—The Russian people got their first news today of President Truman's proposal for United States aid to Greece and Turkey in Soviet press and radio reports characterizing the move as "new interference in the business of other states" directed against "Democratic elements in Greece."

Izvestia, Soviet government newspaper, was reported in a Moscow dispatch to have published a page-one editorial this morning charging interference and declaring that "Truman did not take into consideration either the international situation or the sovereignty of Greece" in his Wednesday message to congress.

The Moscow radio, heard here, carried on its morning news broadcast in Russian a Washington dispatch from Tass, Soviet news agency, which said, in part:

"Danger To Peace, Harmony"
"Truman's message is openly directed against the Democratic elements in Greece who are defending the Democratic institutions in the country and who are called a militant minority in the message."

In New York last night, NBC reported that the British Broadcasting company had heard a Moscow radio broadcast beamed to Greece which termed Mr. Truman's proposal "a danger to the peace and harmony among the nations of the world."

Winston Churchill, commenting on President Truman's appeal for U. S. aid to Greece and Turkey, said today: "No step that I have seen taken lately has more increased the chance of the maintenance of world peace and world freedom."

British Approve Plan
He spoke at a Conservative party meeting.

Meanwhile, an official British spokesman here yesterday said the president's speech was "very much in accord with Britain's views."

In messages to Mr. Truman, King George II of Greece said U. S. assistance in "restoring free Democratic institutions and expediting economic recovery" in Greece would help in "strengthening world peace", and Premier Demetrios Maximos declared it gave the Greeks "encouragement in their just and noble struggles for the principles of freedom and democracy."

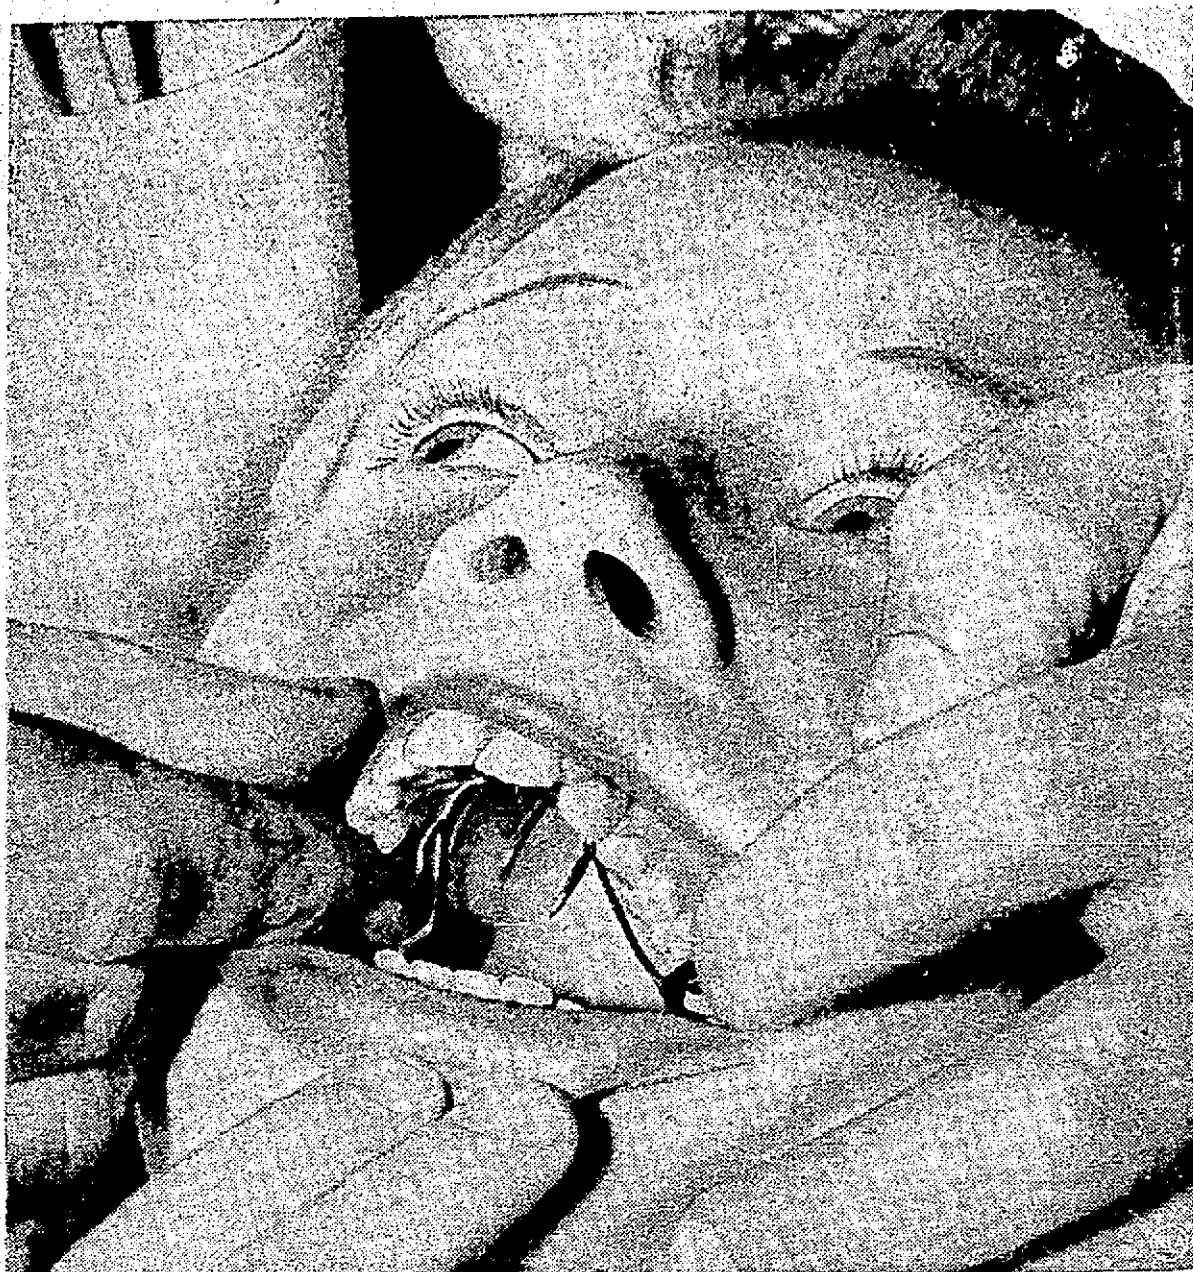

In an earlier statement, Premier Recep Peker of Turkey termed the speech "realistic and fully humanitarian", said it meant an end to U. S. isolationism and declared it would "inspire the peace and freedom-loving peoples of the world."

Delegates Get Translation
United States and British delegations to the Moscow big four foreign ministers' conference were reported to have routed translators out of bed to render the Izvestia editorial into English.

The editorial, first Moscow newspaper reaction to the Truman address, asked:

"What will be left of Greece's

'Hayfork' Discourages Thumbsuckers

If 10-year-old Carol Hayes, of Emeryville, Calif., tries to suck her thumb as usual, she'll have to stop to say "Ouch!" Carol, a chronic thumbsucker, is shown being fitted with a "hayfork" with sharp fangs. The anti-sucking device was dreamed up by Dr. Charles A. Sweet, associate professor of operative dentistry at the San Francisco College of Physicians and Surgeons, who says thumbsucking causes a quarter of all dental deformities in children.

sovereignty after the American military and civilian personnel will sit on the heads of the Greek rulers and when this personnel commences the direction of Greece with the aid of 250,000,000 import-American dollars?"

(Congress has been asked to assist Greece with $250,000,000 and Turkey with $150,000,000 and with civilian and military personnel to supervise the use of financial and material aid).

The broadcast Tass dispatch, earlier distributed to Moscow newspapers, said:

"Declaring that Greece is experiencing desperate need of financial and economic assistance, Truman gives congress to understand that granting of funds to the Greek government will be accompanied by the establishment of American control over Greece."

The Moscow radio broadcast of the Tass story was intercepted in London by the Soviet monitor.

While there can remain small

as to just why Greece and Turkey have been selected as the symbols of Uncle Sam's determination.

Why shouldn't we have picked any other two countries in the path of the Red advance? How is it that these two small Balkan states cast such great shadows in global affairs? This column has been asked to elucidate.

Perhaps the easiest way to arrive at our answers is first to set down the objective of this dynamic new policy. To epitomize, it's aimed at preserving the security—both military and political—not only of the United States and the Western Hemisphere, but is designed to maintain world peace.

Communism mines no words in making it clear that it is out to destroy what it terms the capitalist governments. It employs not only political weapons but bolsters them with Bolshevik tactics, that is, the strong-arm methods of direct action. It has struck heavily not only in Europe and Asia but is boring into many countries of the Western Hemisphere.

So The Story Runs
Things have gone far enough in the United States so that Secretary of Labor Schwelienbach says the communist party should be outlawed by congress. Yesterday the government of Paraguay announced that "international communism" is to blame for the revolt in the country. And so the story runs.

Well, now, anything which further strengthens communism, politically or militarily, increases the threat to the security of nations which wish to preserve their own forms of government. That brings us up to Greece and Turkey, and the famous Dardanelles Strait under Turkish control.

These two countries, and the great waterway between the otherwise landlocked Black Sea and the Aegean, form one of the most important strategic zones of the whole world militarily. Turkey, which straddles the Dardanelles, is the land-bridge between Asia and Europe, and through the centuries the conquerors have battled for its control.

Strait Internationalized
The Turks have controlled the Dardanelles for 500 years, although the Strait long has been internationalized. Now Russia is reaching for domination. Should she succeed, it would give her control of the eastern Mediterranean and the whole great Middle East.

This would so completely upset the already badly battered balance of power in Europe and the Mediterranean theater as to jeopardize world peace. Such wholesale control of territory by Russia, or by any other single nation, couldn't help menacing the security of other countries.

Strength is given this viewpoint by the fact the U. S. Secretary of State Marshall, whose task is to handle this crisis, is widely credited with being the greatest military strategist of our time. He must believe in this method of halting communism, or he wouldn't support it. President Truman tells us that "The United Nations and its related organizations are not in position to extend help of the kind that is required."

Reasons for Plea
So the United States proposes to come to the aid of Greece and Turkey because (1) They are hard pressed, (2) They haven't the wherewithal to defend themselves, (3) They are easy geographically for the U. S. to reach, and (4) Britain's own economic crisis makes it impossible for her to give material assistance to these allies. The alternative would be for America to isolate herself, but this would mean tossing the bulk of free Europe, Asia and Africa into Moscow's hands.

Some claim the new policy must lead to war with Russia—and obviously war could eventuate. Those who favor the policy, however, say there is far greater danger in giving Bolshevism a free rein. They maintain that the present show-down may clear the air. War is not inevitable, though none can deny that it is possible.

Intimate Words With His Disciples.

Scripture: John, Chapters 14-16

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D. Two outstanding portions of the New Testament record the great sayings of Jesus in a way not so evident in other parts of the Gospels, in which the greatest teachings appear in casual conversations, parables, and incidents, without any apparent preconceived system or arrangement.

I think that it is this quality of unexpectedness that gives to the Gospels their unending freshness and interest. The Gospel writers are not so much telling us what Jesus did and said, as they are, by making it all so vivid and picturesque, taking us with them so that we see and hear.

Nevertheless, I think we are grateful for those portions in which the most intimate words of Jesus are recorded in a more solidified way. These portions are the fifth, sixth and seventh chapters of Matthew, which we call "The Sermon on the Mount," and the fourteenth, fifteenth and sixteenth chapters of John.

It is to be noted that these portions record sayings of Jesus that were addressed only to the inner circle of disciples and not to the common people who heard Him gladly. Jesus had a message for all, and He was no respecter of persons. But the intimate words of His teaching required for their fulfillment disciplined living and unlimited devotion.

It is a common thing to speak of the teaching of Jesus, particularly of the Sermon on the Mount, as if the way of life and conduct therein enjoined and exemplified the life of the Master Himself, offered an immediate alternative to our present social system, a system based to a very large extent upon self-interest and the principle of competition.

In my judgment the true principle and motive of life and conduct as set forth in the New Testament is undoubtedly the principle of love, brotherhood, and service. But a Christian social system can be established and made effective only by Christians, and by better Christians than most of us are.

If Christians in general could profit by the chapters in John and attain the experience therein set forth as possible, they would be better prepared to put into life and action the Sermon on the Mount.

As these chapters in John reveal the inner life of the Master, they reveal also the life that every disciple may attain if he will accept the discipline of prayer and consecration and abide in Christ in the relationship which Jesus suggested in the illustration of the branch and the vine. "What does it mean to abide in Christ? I think it means to have the same motives determining our conduct that actuated the Master in His earthly life. The very heart of it is in the Master's command, that we love one another as He has loved us (John 15:12).

Fellowship of Prayer --

SELF-CONCERN

Be it far from thee, Lord; this shall not be unto thee. But be thou behind me, Satan, Matthew 16:22-23. Read Matthew 16:21-28.

Self-concern is basic and legitimate. But it can make us guilty of hugging trifles to our breast, unaware that doing so may cost us a kingdom. Even Jesus had to discipline his self-concern when Peter rebelled against his crucifixion — "this shall not be unto thee." Unless this suggestion had tempted Jesus, he would not have said to poor troubled Peter, "get thee behind me, Satan."

The discipline of self-concern consists primarily in the insight that we can realize our own highest welfare only in the effort to serve sincerely the best interests of others. Dr. Grenfell said that he disliked to talk of self-sacrifice because, "I cannot recall that I have ever indulged in it." No one of us has.

Now as never before in human history, we must solve the problems of other men and nations, or face a world where we shall be only a part of the ashes. We cannot save our sons without saving China. We shall never know how a defeated Man on a cross conquered a world. Until we truly enlarge our hearts.

Let us Pray: God of the Ages, before whose judgment seat men and nations daily stand, we have known thee as Judge in the hell made by our rebellion against thee, who we would not turn to thee as the Father of people living in brotherhood. Open our eyes lest we perish! Amen.

Unending Argument Wages on Outlawing Communist Group

Proposal Involves Limit on Citizens' Rights; Political Freedom

Washington, March 14—(AP)—The proposal to outlaw the Communist party in this country is bound to make men think.

Secretary of Labor Schwelmbach suggested it. Congress may act on it, to outlaw the party or reject the idea.

This proposal involves citizens' rights: Freedom of speech and peaceful assembly, guaranteed by the Constitution.

Freedom of speech is not unlimited. You can't dash into a theater and scream "fire" without running the risk of being jailed for endangering lives.

And libel laws protect one citizen against unjust charges made by another to damage him.

But, otherwise, free speech is so much a part of American living, that Americans are apt to accept it as a natural thing.

Limits on Freedom

In Russia, where the Communists took over by revolution, there is a dictatorship with strong limits on freedom. The communist party in Russia doesn't permit organized political opposition.

There is nothing in the constitution of the American Communist party which indicates it wants to do anything but come to power peacefully, by democratic elections.

But critics of the American Communists say they want to come to power here by force and violence and then set up a dictatorship.

From here on is a boiled down account of an actual argument between two Americans who took time out to think of freedom because of the Schwelmbach proposal.

Political Freedom?

Joe: Do you think the Communist party should be outlawed?

Jack: No. It might drive the Communies underground and make them harder to find and watch. Besides, they have a right to say what they want. It's a right, a freedom we all have.

It's certainly a freedom political parties have and the Communist party is a political party.

Joe: But do you think anyone has the right to urge the overthrow of the government by force?

Jack: Of course, not. Anyone who does can be jailed. There's a law on the books now against that.

Joe: Do you think the Communist party has a chance of coming to power by a vote of the people?

Jack: No. The American people won't go for communism.

Joe: All right. So right now you don't think the Communies will ever have a chance of winning by elections.

But just suppose 10 years from now we have a terrific depression and the American people, desperately anxious to get out of it, should elect the Communies because they might have what looked like a good program.

Jack: If the majority of the people wanted it, it would be all right with me. That would be democratic.

Joe: But just remember: Everywhere the Communies have taken over, they've set up a dictatorship to crush opposition. Such a dictatorship here would mean an end to freedom as we know it.

And it could happen here. So by letting them have freedom now to grow strong, you may be making it possible for them later to wipe out the kind of freedom you gave them.

Can't Find Answer

Jack: When you put it that way, I don't know.

Joe: Why don't you know? You talk of freedom. But what kind. Look back on what you said.

Right now you're all for letting the Communies have freedom, but really only because they're too weak now to be a danger now.

But when you think they might some day win control, you're not so sure you don't want to wipe out their freedom now so they can't wipe out our freedom later.

So you're treating freedom as a luxury: You give it to the weak but not to the strong. What kind of freedom is that?

Jack: But I just thought of something: If we take away the Communies' freedom by outlawing their party we may be laying dangerous groundwork for the future. I mean:

If we once do this, some day and for some reason the Democrats (or the Republicans) may have such control of the government by elections that they'll outlaw all other political parties.

That could happen, and, if it did, we'd have one party rule and a dictatorship.

Joe and Jack didn't find an answer. You try it.

Springfield Studies City Bus Operations

Springfield, Ill., March 14—(AP)—The city's legal department is contemplating the feasibility of municipal operation of the bus transportation system as the state capital neared the end of its second week without bus service.

The department acted on instructions of the city council which yesterday asked attorneys to draft a plan for submission to voters in a referendum.

About 165 AFL employees of the Springfield Transportation company, which holds the present bus franchise, have been idle since Feb. 28 in a wage contract dispute.

Only about four percent of Americans bitten by poisonous snakes die.

British Spokesman "Welcomes" Truman Speech to Congress

Greece and Turkey Also Pleased Over President's Request for Aid

(By The Associated Press)
London, March 14—Britain today officially welcomed President Truman's declaration on Greece and Turkey, and the president's recommendations to congress were received in Greek and Turkish official circles here with expressions ranging from "profound satisfaction" to "extreme joy."

A British foreign office spokesman told a crowded news conference:

"The British government welcomes Truman's statement to congress. The views he expressed on the question of governments being imposed on sovereign states in Europe are very much in accord with our own views. And, on a number of occasions, we have conveyed these beliefs to certain governments whose elections have not been carried out in line with their pledges."

In Istanbul, Premier Recep Peker of Turkey said the president's "American and human speech" indicated the United States had awakened to the world situation.

Expect Russian Kickback
Eddy Gilmore, chief of the Associated Press bureau in Moscow, said that when the Russians did speak "it is to be expected that President Truman's request for $400,000,000 to aid Greece and Turkey will be branded here as United States interference in the internal affairs of other nations."

"Russians unquestionably will take a serious view of the American president's proposal," Gilmore's Moscow dispatch said. "It can be said that no single action by the United States in many months, perhaps years, has caused such concern among the Russians as this one will. It is sure to be regarded as aimed at Russia."

In Athens, Constantin Tsaldaris, the Greek foreign minister, dispatched a message to President Truman in which he said:

Greece Enthused
"With a feeling of true relief the Greeks heard your momentous message to the American people and congress. At this historic hour I recollect with profound emotion our personal contact in December last and the assurances which you were kind enough to give when, on Greece's behalf, I laid before you her great problem. Those assurances of yours are now becoming reality. And the Greek people, who had been so sorely tried, can confidently look forward to a better future, which they are entitled to."

(In New York, Nikolai V. Novikov, Soviet ambassador to the United States, said before enplaning for Moscow today said he had not yet read President Truman's foreign policy speech to congress but that he would "try to read it when I get on the plane."

Doomed Girl, 4, Enjoys Hospital Birthday Party

Los Angeles, March 14—(AP)—Mary Frances Hoffman, whose fourth birthday party in General hospital Wednesday may be her last, had a roomful of presents to compensate, a little, for the family she doesn't have.

Since the plight of the little girl, suffering from a probably fatal kidney ailment, was published last week kindly Angelenos sent 65 dolls, a dozen teddy bears, boxes of games, a pink quilted robe, fluffy slippers, $200 in cash and hundreds of letters and cards to the hospital.

Nurses arranged the birthday party. Mary smiled at many visitors. Her mother died shortly after her birth and her father's whereabouts are unknown. She has spent most of her life in the hospital.

Most of the temperance societies of the world have struck prohibition off their practical reform programs.

Eddy Gilmore of AP is Named for Reporting Work

Atlantic City, N. J., March 14—(AP)—Eddy Gilmore, chief of the Associated Press Moscow bureau and William Smith, AP Washington photographer, were named today as winners of National Journalism Medals of Merit for journalistic achievement in 1946.

Bratton Gardner, Pennsylvania state director of publications and chairman of the National Headliners club committee, said Gilmore was cited for "consistently excellent foreign reporting as based on his coverage of Russia."

Smith's award was for his photograph of John L. Lewis in a Washington hotel lobby during the coal crisis, judged by the committee as "the outstanding news picture" of the year.

Altogether 20 medals of merit were to be awarded to newsmen, photographers, radio and newsreel men, Gardner said, at the Headliners annual frolic here June 14.

Kingsbury Smith of the International News Service and Arthur Gaeth of the Mutual Broadcasting System, who won a drawing to be the only American press and radio representatives at the Nuernberg executions, were cited by the committee for their coverage of that event.

Other awards included:
Lyle Wilson of the United Press for his coverage of Washington as a wire service correspondent; the Chicago Sun and its school editor John McGrath for a three-year school campaign; Russell Bull of the Minneapolis Star for the best sports photograph, a midjet auto car accident; W. Henson Purcell of the West Frankfort, Ill., Daily American for feature writing; and Norine Foley of the Chicago Daily News for outstanding performance by a newspaperwoman.

Free Repair Job Fixes Driver's Car, Unasked

St. Louis, March 14 —(AP)—Garland H. Slaughter's automobile is in fine running order today after a repair job and it's all for free.

Believing the machine had been stolen from its parking place near the hardware store where he worked Slaughter called the police.

Their investigation disclosed a woman had left her automobile, nearby yesterday and asked garage attendants to make necessary repairs.

The mechanic found Slaughter's car first and the keys fit. So it was taken to the shop where new wiring, spark plugs and points were installed.

Since the garage held the mix-up occurred through its error it would accept no payment.
